

The Protocol for Benchmark Database of 3D Fingerprint Image using Optical-Coherence-Tomography

In order to protect your legal rights, you should carefully read this agreement and abide by its guidelines for using this benchmark database for academic experimentation.

Some suggestions:

1. It is encouraged to fill the things you are going to do in the research using our database in the corresponding places, which will help us to improve our database better.
2. We will publish the paper of this benchmark database later, and if you use the database, you will be grateful for quoting our relevant papers.
3. If you use our data to publish amazing papers or other research results, contact us and we are going to maintain a list of papers published using our database.

Important Statement:

1. The field of this dataset is limited to academia. It is prohibited to use this database for any commercial or illegal purpose.
2. Fingerprint is an important biological feature of a person, so all research should consider about the data security.
3. When this agreement comes into effect, you will not be allowed to share or transfer data in any form for the security of the subjects. (You will not have any right to disseminate, but you can recommend our website to people who need it for application.)
4. If your organization, rather than an individual, wants to use the database, the signature of the person in charge of the organization is needed.

Confidentiality Agreement:

The OCT-based fingerprint data you use is confidential. This means that it can only be used or disclosed in certain circumstances. Rules governing the use of confidential information are established in accordance with legal and ethical standards. You can't publish or sell the database. We have coded the data to prevent fingerprints from corresponding to the information of the subjects, and we will not disclose any details of the subjects. It is also your duty to strictly protect the safety of the subjects.

Signing here will prove that you have agreed to the terms above.
